NOTES RELATING TO THE SPARKS AND TICKELL FAMILIES.

Will of LUKE SPARKS, proved 2 June, 1769.

To be buried where my wife or children shall think proper the funeral expence low as decency will admit of the persons appointed to assist my wife as Executors Mr Bellingam Mauliverer* of Cateaton Street and Richard Foxall of —— Merchants all they shall have to do in my wife's life is to see that the securities I leave are good ones and if not thought so by them to call in the cash and place it in the funds afterwards to see a proper distribution according to the will of my wife as I mean to leave the whole in her power (except the legacies following) as she shall think my family deserve To my daughter Sarah Sparks one thousand pounds and my son James the like sum of but at such a time being very young as shall be thought by the Executors to be most proper My daughter Frances Leigh and husband ten pounds each for mourning Her daughter Elizabeth Storey two hundred pounds my daughter Grace† Sparks one shilling every twenty-ninth of February being her birthday My reason for not leaving any thing to my son Robert or daughter Mary‡ is because they have had large sums and are I hope well provided for if not their mother will have it in her power to give equal to their wishes.

Grace, widow of Luke Sparks, made her will 1 Feb. 1781, and described herself of Suffolk Street, in the parish of St. Martin's in the Fields, co. Middlesex. She died 27 February, 1781. Her will and two codicils were proved 29 March, 1781, by one of her Executors, William Atkinson, power being reserved to George Stubbs, the other Executor. Grace Sparks names her two sons Robert and James, and her daughters Sarah Tickell, Grace Smith, Frances wife of Thomas Leigh of Suffolk Street, and Mary wife of Wm. Ashburner.

An Ann Sparks, widow, and Frances Leigh depos'd that they knew Testatrix well, etc.

Mary, daughter of John Osborne of Hartlip, co. Kent, by Mary, daughter of James Thurlby of London, married . . . Sparks of London. John Osborne, born 1614, and died 1683. Mary, afterwards Sparks, born 1651. See Berry's County Genealogies, Kent. Osborne.

Luke Sparks, Actor in Dublin, Edinburgh, and at Covent Garden Theatre, died 28 December, 1768, and was buried 3 January, 1769, at Brentford, Middlesex.

'Gentleman's Magazine,' 1807, page 631. Johnson, an Irish gentleman, author of 'Chrysal, or the Adventures of a Guinea,' came over from Ireland to the Temple to study law. He had been employed in the concerns of a petty German State which gave him a certain countenance amongst public men in the great offices. This connection enabled him to serve many, and a countryman, the respectable Luke Sparks, of Covent Garden Theatre, had a son appointed through his influence to Bombay as a writer (I am speaking of more than fifty years past, when these appointments were not sought after as at present). Mr. Johnson, in the decline of life, went out to India, and I saw him at Bombay comfortably entertained in the house of old Luke Sparks's son, then a Counsellor of that Presidency, in 1782. The author of 'Chrysal' is said shortly after that to have died.—W. P.

Isaac Sparks, an actor in Dublin 1771, had a son Richard Sparks, also an actor, who married in spring of 1772, an actress, Miss Ashmore.

In Burke's 'Landed Gentry,' under Hughes of Ely House, co. Wexford, the marriage of Robert Hughes of Ely House, J.P., on 1 January, 1797, with Anne, second daughter of Captain Frederick Sparks of Curough, co. Wexford, is recorded. Capt. Frederice Sparks had a son a Major in the 51st Regiment who was at Corunna, and another, Samuel Sparks.

1789. 24 August. At Willingdon, near Eastbourne, Richard Tickell, one of the Commissioners of Stamps, married . . . daughter of Captain Thomas Ley of East Indiaman Berington of Gower Street, Bedford Square.

1793. April. Richard Tickell, son of celebrated Mr. Tickell, the friend of Addison, and father of Richard Tickell of the Stamp Office, died.

1793. 4 November. At his apartments, Hampton Court Palace, Richard Tickell, one of the Commissioners of Stamps, died. He fell from a parapet wall where he often sat. He left three children by his first wife, née Linley.

* Bellingham Mauleverer. ? died Sept. 1795, at his house in Queen Square, Holborn. Left two daughters unmarried. ? son of Bellingham Mauleverer, Rector of Maghera, co. Derry, collated 3 April, 1723, and married Elizabeth, third dau. of Wm. Nicholson, D.D., Bishop of Carlisle, and subsequently Archbishop of Cashel, and had issue amongst others, Bellingham, described as of St. Lawrence Jewry, mar. Thomazine, dau. of . . . and had issue James Cunningham Mauleverer, bapt. 8 July, 1759, and buried August, 1759, at St. Lawrence Jewry, City of London, and a dau. Elizabeth, bapt. 2 June, 1762, at St. Lawrence Jewry.

1800. 29 August. At Marylebone Church, John Tickell of Hambledon, Hants, married Lady Hester Lucy Griselda, second daughter of Charles Earl Stanhope.

1805. October. Lieutenant ? Richard Tickell of Phoebe Frigate ? eldest son of late Richard Tickell, Commissioner of Stamps, and nephew to R. B. Sheridan and Sir Robert Barclay, killed in an attempt to cut out some French gun-boats on the coast of Sardinia.

1812. 31 May. At Hackney, aged 56, Mrs. Tickell died.

1819. 8 January. At Exmouth, aged ? 34, Samuel Tickell, late of London.

1821. 8 March. Christiana, daughter of late Henry Tickell of London and Leytonstone, Essex, married William Tilsley Jones of Gwynfryn, co. Cardigan, and had issue.

1860. 24 October. At Brighton, of diphtheria, aged 51, Major R. S. Tickell, Bengal Army, died.

1865. 18 February. At St. John's Cathedral, Hongkong, William Marsh Cooper of H. M.'s Consular Service in China, married Mary Louisa, daughter of Colonel S. R. Tickell, late Bengal Staff Corps and Commissioner of Pegu.
